GALLERY BOARDED UP AFTER EARTHQUAKE — Sullivan-Goss Gallery suffered severe facade damage in last week's earthquake and ultimately a wooden barricade was installed around the entire structure and out into the street. Another shaking would probably result in the facade tumbling down, officials estimate.

Three stores closed following aftershocks

The three Sierra Madre downtown structures that have been closed until a structural engineer can check them for safety are Crystal Farms Market, Paper Palace and Sullivan-Goss Gallery.

How long will those structures be closed for business? A building inspector's office representative said, "Until a structural engineer gives the OK."

Steve Pock, building inspector, has a "tremendous fear of aftershock or earthquake damage to public buildings and wants to make sure the public is safe," the spokesperson stated.

"In a continuing effort to keep Sierra Madreans safe," the building department has closed these stores, according to Fire Marshal Bill Kramer.

The parapets in Crystal Farms and the Paper Palace were the problems and the parapet in The Cottage is also in question. Parapets are the barrier at the edge of the roof. On Tuesday, The Cottage had not yet been closed.

Cause for closure at Sullivan-Goss Gallery was the ceramic brick facade and on Tuesday afternoon, workers from Griffin and Sons were constructing a wooden barricade totally around that building into the street around four parking places for the public's safety.

Arnold's Hardware and Dickinson and Hester Law office lost windows. Both Crystal Farms and Howie's Ranch Market, as well as Happy's Wines, Bottle Shop and Highlander, lost a great deal of merchandise. Most of the gift shops fared quite well and owners said that breakage was minimal.

All schools in Sierra Madre came through well, according to Fire Marshal Kramer, and city facilities fared well. The Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility and doctors' and dentists' offices were all "fine," Kramer said.

"I personally feel that building owners are a bit reticent to call the city concerning their buildings in fear of closure," Kramer told The News. "However, after this crisis, we are inspecting all these buildings on our own."

Kramer said everyone "sailed through" the earthquake (of 6.1 on the Richter Scale), but the aftershock had already weakened some of the buildings which were heavily hit by the 5.5 aftershock.

"There is good news though," Kramer said. "There were no medical transports, no injuries in this city as a result. A lot of people are suffering post-quake depression and help is available at Methodist Hospital, St. Luke and at Huntington, as well as through the Red Cross. If I can compare our city with Whittier, Pasadena and San Gabriel, we should feel very, very fortunate. No one has been displaced, nobody hurt, no heart attacks. We have a big population of elderly people and it could have been difficult. The phone company did a marvelous job restoring service. There are still areas of Pasadena and other communities that have no power, no phone service. The (Santa Anita) Mall has been closed some of the time. We are very lucky."

Today is National Firefighters Day

Courtesy Sierra Madre Fire Dept.

Today, Oct. 8, is National Firefighters Day, a special day set aside during Fire Prevention Week to honor the heroic service of our nation's firefighters.

State Fire Marshal James McMullen has announced a statewide program to make Firefighters Day a special event throughout California.

"We believe California's firefighters are the best in the world, and we wanted to find a way for citizens to do something which would benefit the gallant men and women of the fire service, and themselves, at the same time," said McMullen.

One of the greatest risks to firefighters occurs in search and rescue operations in a burning building. "If we can get people out of the building safely before the fire department arrives, we've effectively reduced the risk to the firefighters. The key to that occurring is early warning, and that comes from smoke detectors."

McMullen emphasized, "We know smoke detectors have saved thousands of lives, but we also know many tragic deaths have occurred because smoke detectors did not operate due to lack of proper maintenance."

To help citizens insure their own safety — and to help reduce the risks to firefighters — we are asking all Californians to "Do something special for firefighters on National Firefighters Day by cleaning and testing your smoke detectors and giving battery-operated models renewed life with a fresh battery."

Sierra Madre Fire Department's Chief Ed Tracy commented, "The early warning provided by smoke detectors is absolutely essential to the life safety of those in your home; and it also increases our chances of getting to the fire at its earliest stage, thereby minimizing the amount of damage."

Chief Tracy added, "We urge all citizens to help our firefighters and themselves by participating in this Firefighters Day program. We will be happy to assist anyone who has questions about the installation or maintenance of smoke detectors. Just call the Bureau of Fire Prevention at (818) 355-1414 during the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m."

Associates' dinner set for Oct. 14

The annual dinner of the Methodist Hospital Associates will be held Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel, with Robert E. Tranquada, M.D., as keynote speaker.

Sponsored by the Methodist Hospital Foundation, this event each year benefits a key patient service at Methodist Hospital in Arcadia.

"Proceeds for 1987 will support exciting advances in Methodist's maternal and child health services," said John R. Fee of Arcadia, foundation chairman. "The entire 30-year old labor and delivery area will be renovated. There will be a new Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), and Labor/Delivery/Recovery Rooms (LDRs), and the newest concept in birthing centers."

Tranquada, the dean of the USC School of Medicine, will discuss the rapid changes now occurring in medicine and medical education and the "doctor of the future."

"Massive chance has become the daily fare for the medical profession and the hospital," stated Tranquada. "How did this happen? When will it end? What does the future hold?"

Dr. Tranquada is the former chancellor of the University of Massachusetts Medical Center. A graduate of Pomona College and Stanford Medical School, he is a specialist in internal medicine and diabetes treatment. He served as professor of community medicine and public health at USC and was medical director of the Los Angeles County/USC Medical Center.

"The public is warmly invited to attend the second annual associates dinner," said Fee. "We encourage support of Methodist Hospital through this event and a variety of vital programs and activities. For reservations and further information, please call the Methodist Hospital Foundation at (818) 574-3742."

Congratulations to firefighters

Last Saturday's fire prevention and suppression activities were quite exciting to view. The drama of putting out the fire in the auto and the amazement we felt when we saw the Jaws of Life demonstration made us realize how successful a department we have.

And they are volunteers. More of our good Sierra Madre volunteers.

Congratulations to you all, Firefighters. Sierra Madre appreciates you!

Keep chin up and pray

Although this recent earthquake was not the "big one" we keep hearing about, it was a big one to us up here in the foothills. And, according to our police and fire departments, we fared very well.

We're all suffering from the post - earthquake jitters but we're getting through it. We've all tried to remind each other that we're lucky because we've had no casualties, no medicals because of the earthquake.

Now we need to be more cautious. Take heed of the Red Cross suggestions. Buy that extra water. Prepare "care" packages to be placed in specific parts of your homes. Remind yourselves that when the "big one" comes, it will be perhaps 200 times as large as the 6.1 earthquake we had a week ago.

And pray.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● Jim and Rosemary Abernethy were at the end of a relaxing vacation in northern California. They were staying in Ukiah for the night and were getting ready to go to sleep, when a noise broke the silence of their room.

A bullet whizzed through their room just six inches above Jim's head — in the exact area of where his head had been 15 minutes before while he was sitting up in bed, reading. The bullet crashed through the window, spreading glass on the foot of Jim's bed.

Moments later, a man in the hallway asked if anyone had heard a shot. Jim says, "I went out of our room and said, 'Yes, the bullet came through my wall.' The man asked if anyone had been hurt and I said 'no.' He looked at the window and at the damaged plaster and disappeared." Jim later learned that the same man was the person who had discharged the gun. "He was hoping to have everyone forget the incident."

Jim called the manager and said, "I have not been drinking. I want to report a bullet through my wall and window."

The manager called the police, who arrived moments later. They looked at the damage in the Abernethy room, went next door and wakened the woman who had slept through the entire incident.

They located the man who had been unloading his 9 mm. handgun when it discharged. He had a clean background and was very embarrassed, the Abernethys report.

Were they glad to get home to Sierra Madre? What's a little earthquake compared to being almost killed by a gun?

● Phyllis Chapman tells us that "this is the land of shake and bake." Funny story even while we shake.

● Jim and Barbara Dunnagan just returned from a trip through 32 states during a 3½-month period. Their loop was up to Seattle through the northern states, up to Canada and into New York. Then they dropped down to North Carolina, went through Nashville, Tenn. and through Texas.

In Pogosa Springs, Colo., they visited Lela and Louis George, former residents, then went on to visit more former Sierra Madreans, Bert and Velma Embree in Durango, Colo.

The big news of the trip? In Las Vegas Barbara hit the $1000 jackpot. Whew. That was a bit more exciting than our shaking earth.

● Some kind soul who continues to be anonymous, has been leaving surprise gifts on my desk during the lunch hour. First, there was a kaleidscope, then, a great cup with the flag on one side and "Kersting Court" on the other.

Whoever you are, THANKS. I love the gifts, but I WOULD like to thank you in person.

● A friend from up north who called the night of the earthquake asked if we had filled the bathtub with water. Oh, gosh no, we said. We had filled the teakettle and another large container immediately after the earthquake, but not the tub.

This San Francisco native said, "Oh, you always fill the tub immediately in case you'll need water for a length of time."

Another earthquake hint . . .

Misrepresenting VFW for funds

I have been ripped off by the "Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW)." I'm sure they didn't plan it that way . . . but that's how it turned out. The details:

A few weeks ago I got a phone call from "The VFW." They were asking for monetary support of their organization by means of selling various merchandise. One of the items offered for sale was an American flag. Since I didn't have a flag, and Labor Day was approaching, I ageed to buy a flag "to help support the VFW." The price of the flag was $40. I knew full well that a flag can be bought for about $12 (a local hardware chain store had them on sale that weekend for $8.95), but I agreed to spend the $40 . . . after all, it was for a charitable organization. I figure the VFW would get the excess profits which they probably needed for a good cause.

Later that day, they delivered the flag, collected my $40 check, and give me a receipt. In small print, the receipt says "make check payable to VFW Speical Projects." In extremely small print, it says "11% of your purchase goes to veterans." Eleven percent. A whopping $4.40.

This is a scam. Plain and simple. What happens to the remaining $35.60? It goes to "VFW Special Projects." Who are they? They are not the VFW. They are not affiliated with the Veteras of Foreign Wars or any other charity. They are, according to representative Mr. Donald Hayes, a separate profit-making entity. Period. They ripped me off $40 for a $12 flag, under the guise of charity. They call themsleves "VFW Special Projects" to fool the public into thinking they are charitable, when in fact they are an independent contractor that sells merchandise at inflated prices under false pretenses. I suspect that they'll change their name to "Red Cross Special Projects" or "Cancer Research Projects" for their next scam. Be forewarned.

The "real" VFW should think twice before using such fundraising methods again.

Enjoying Sierra Madre, except for earthquake

We've just moved here from Oregon and we're very pleased to be residing in your idyllic little town at the foothills of the San Gabriels. Your reputation as a "safe" place (book by David and Holly Franke) precedes you.

I hope some of you will welcome us into your homes — we're friendly folks, who'd like to get to know our neighbors. Due to economics, we had to give up a ½-acre ranch-style home in eastern Oregon where we lived six years. We're still reeling somewhat from that.

Our 7-year-old son is enrolled in Sierra Madre School. My wife, Mary, hopes to enjoy your local shopping and cultural activities. I am an editor in Glendale and also continue to run a national relocation consulting organization from my mailbox.

Bill Seavey

P.S. Our only gripe is the rude "housewarming" we got the day after we moved in by the Great Quake of '87!

Association celebrates Fire Prevention Week

The San Gabriel Valley Fireman'a Association will be celebrating Fire Prevention Week next week. The group is an association of firefighters encompassing 16 cities within the San Gabriel Valley, and was founded in 1927. The area covers from Burbank to Pomona, and from the foothills to the Pomona Freeway. The purpose of the association is to promote, protect and preserve the image and welfare of the fire service in general, and the public served. This is done through communication, fellowship, charitable donations, public education and relief for members in time of distress.

The association sponsors two shows during the year, one in the spring and one during the winter. These shows provide the funds through telephone solicitation sales which allow the means to continue our charitable donations, as well as to conduct the business of the Association.

Some of the agencies S.G.V.F.A. has supported are: The Alisa Ann Rusch California Burn Foundation; YMCA Wings for Battered Wives and their Children; Faith, Family and Football; La Verne Fire Dept. for the Jaws of Life tool; Monterey Park Girls and Boys Clubs; The California Firemen's Muster Association; Muscular Dystrophy Association; Casa Colina Rehabilitation Center; Promotional Preparation Workshop for Firefighters; various Little League teams and other organizations.

Mini-marathon Oct. 18 at school

Sierra Madre School will be conducting its 5th Annual Mini-Marathon on Sunday, Oct. 18, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Three oval tracks will be marked on the grass field, around which the students will run, jog or walk to raise money for the school PTA.

Friends, family and neighbors sponsor the children, who run a maximum of 20 laps (graduated in size for large to small children) on a pledge-per-lap basis. If a child receives a pledge of 25¢ per lap, and finishes the marathon, that child has earned $5 for the school. Prizes are awarded to each participant.

This year it is hoped that the Mini-Marathon can raise $10,000 which will be used for a variety of programs and educational projects including computers and donations to each classroom and the school's Discovery Room.

Sierra Madre PTA urges the community to support the school by sponsoring a child.

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

Friends of the San Gabriel Valley Civic Light Opera which has raised justified enthusiasm these past few years, will be glad to know that the earthquake damage to its home, the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium, seems, at this writing, to be cosmetic rather than structural. What fell over so spectacularly was the decorative facade and the arcade immediately under it. With a bit of plaster and paint, the actual auditorium and stage house will be as good as new.

Bill Shaw, manager of the Civic, hopes to be able to fulfill the theater's Christmas commitments, and the production of "Hello Dolly" that was due to open Oct. 16 is being shelved only temporarily. Plans are to put it on in July of 1988 at the end of the current season.

The Joffrey Ballet has now established its official home at the Music Center, thus becoming Los Angeles' first world-class resident ballet company. Robert Joffrey, who first gained his reputation with original ballets in contemporary style, is now happily reviving classics and historical curiosities alike. Last week I mentioned the way Diaghilev encouraged his artists to innovation, and it is certainly interesting to see what they came up with.

On the other hand, to the less historically minded there is something slightly comic about them. In the case of "Afternoon of a Faun," the beautifully romantic Debussy music stands in complete contrast to the mincing and angular choreography.

In "The Rite of Spring" the stamping, earthbound ceremony is reminiscent of Native American ritual which is not designed for show, but is intended to affect the forces of nature. In Indian thought, the monotony has the insistence and power of a prayer wheel. In theatrical performance, the same monotony can evoke wonder, curiosity or slumber, depending on the viewer. And Nicholas Roerich's costumes, faithfully reconstructed by Kenneth Archer, have a decorative, picture - book charm far removed from the ballet's primitive theme.

One is forced to the conclusion hardly original, that we know more now about what dancers can do and how to use the dazzling and expressive abilities of the human body. Modern audiences can be excused for prefering Frederick Ashton's "The Dream" with its quaint Victorian fairies, beautifully comic lovers, and lyrical staging. Or the imaginative body design to Satie music of Ashton's "Monotones," or the flashy exhuberance of his "Les Patineurs."

Historical landmarks are important. They let us know where we came from. But dance has come a long way since then.

Quake, quake quake!

HOWIE'S QUAKE DAMAGE — Workers scurried to pick up the pieces at Howie's Ranch Market following both the earthquake Thursday and Sunday's aftershock. Damages were estimated by Karl Duus, manager, in the thousands of dollars.

PASADENA DAMAGE — Pasadena building, once the horse stables for the Green Hotel, is pictured here, a pile of rubble following Thursday's earthquake.

PAPER PALACE CLOSED — Paper Palace was closed shortly after this photo was taken. The parapet along the cracked line shown here was dangerous, according to officials. Structural engineers will be called in to determine whether the store is safe.

AROMA SURROUNDED LIQUOR STORES FOLLOWING QUAKE — The neighborhood went in for a smell and came out smiling at Happy's Wines and Spirits following Thursday's earthquake. Many bottles of liquor had fallen to the floor and broken. The mixed smells were compelling, to say the least.

MANY RUPTURED CHIMNEYS — One of the many chimneys that did not survive either the 6.1 earthquake or the 5.5 aftershock.

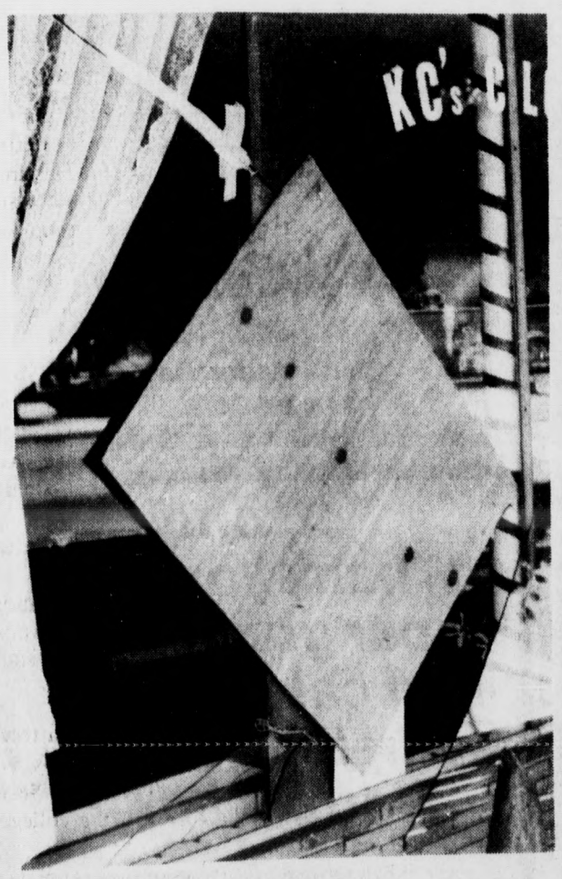
STORE INTERIOR IS DEVASTATED — The inside of Crystal Farms Market is a disaster following the earthquake last Thursday. The aftershock later caused the same sort of damage. The store is now closed temporarily until a structural engineer has time to examine its safety.

LAW OFFICE LOSES WINDOWS — Dickinson and Hester law office lost two large plate glass windows in the temblor last week.



KC's CLOSET LOSES WINDOW — The large front window of KC's Closet shattered during the earthquake.

Goodfellow heads Arcadia Century 21 commercial office

Michael Ludecke, broker/owner of Century 21 Ludecke Realty in Arcadia and also owner of Century 21, Village Realty in Sierra Madre, recently announced the appointment of Harold T. Goodfellow as the department head of the professional commercial and investment department at the Arcadia office. Goodfellow, a licensed real estate broker for over 23 years, resides in Sierra Madre. He has been a financial accounting, and securities officer since 1960 and has been associated with major land developers in California.

Financial studies, economic forecasts, and tax planning are basic tools vital to accurately determine land values, cash flow, and P & L results for income properties. Comparisons with other properties then permit the final decision to reflect all the known facts of a property and its outlook.

Century 21 Ludecke Realty and Century 21 Village Realty can provide these services through this new department by calling (818) 447-9532 and speaking with Harold Goodfellow.

Sales rise in August

Sales of existing single - family homes in California rose 2.2 percent in August, reversing this summer's temporary trend toward a slower real estate market, according to the California Association of REALTORS (C.A.R.).

Statewide, 489,478 single - family homes closed escrow in August on a seasonally adjusted, annualized basis — up from 478,959 homes sold in July. August sales were down 2.2 percent from the 500,489 homes sold during the same month in 1986, ending a two - year string of year - over - year gains.

"Sales activity and buyer interest continued to be strong, with well - priced property being quickly absorbed and multiple offers in common in many areas of the state," said C.A.R. President Jack Paulson.

The pick - up in the pace of marked activity contributed to a 1.6 percent jump from July in the monthly median sales price paid for California homes. The median price hit a record-high $143,876 in August, a 6.1 percent increase over the $135,591 median price of a year ago.

"A temporary lull in interest rates during June and July and continuing inventory shortages in the metropolitan areas of the state throughout the summer helped push prices higher in August," said Joel Singer, chief economist and vice president of Planning, Research and Economics for C.A.R. "While August activity was consistent with what we've seen all summer, the early September increase in interest rates makes it clear that the resale housing market will slow in the coming months."

Prior to September's rate spike, fixed mortgage rates declined slightly from 10.33 percent in July to 10.31 percent in early August, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Adjustable rate mortgages, however, edged higher from 8.50 percent in July to 8.53 percent. Both rates were lower than they were a year ago, when fixed mortgages were at 10.60 percent and adjustable mortgage rates were at 9.36 percent.

The unsold inventory index, which measures the time it would take for all listed homes to sell at the current sales rate, rose to 5.6 months in August after reaching an all - time low of 5.0 months in July. The August result was still well below the level of last August, when the index was a 7.1 months.

Los Angeles - area home sales for August declined by 12.7 percent but were up 9.6 percent over last year. Median home prices in the region were up 1.9 percent in August to $145,993.

Nearly 13,000 Southern California Gas Co. customers were inconvenienced following last week's earthquake because in many instances they needlessly turned off the natural gas to their homes or apartments, a gas company official has explained.

In the aftermath of the quake that struck the Los Angeles area, officials at Southern California Gas Co. are advising customers not to turn off their gas meters in the event of an earthquake unless they smell gas or hear the hissing sound of a gas leak.

"Our system suffered very little damage as a result of the quake and the aftershocks, but we did have thousands of customers who turned off their meters," said Marcia Secord, district manager for the gas company. The official said that a few TV and radio stations improperly instructed listeners to turn off gas service to their homes unnecessarily.

Secord said that some customers did not have gas service restored for several days because of the great volume of requests. Each service must be checked by a qualified service person who must be able to get into the home or apartment before the gas is turned back on.

Gas service should only be turned off if the customer believes there is a leak. If a leak is coming from a specific appliance, it may be possible to shut off service to that appliance without turning off the gas service to the entire house, the official explained.

Volunteer uses interest in art for Asia Museum

A long - time interest in Oriental art and a dedication to volunteerism were the forces behind Winifred (Win) Henke's becoming involved with Pasadena's Pacific Asia Museum.

This Arcadia resident had been volunteer at the Los Angeles County Arboretum, and she was looking for a new avenue when she learned about the Pasadena museum some five years ago. She said that she didn't want to be a docent but has been very happy working on the Service Council which runs the book store and collector's gallery, a consignment shop featuring Asian art items.

Annually, she donates some 200 hours to her volunteer job as the "little ole shop keeper," and is currently the chairperson of the non - art auction items for the Festival of the Autumn Moon, an auction fundraiser to be held Saturday, Oct. 10.

The Festival wanted to broaden the range of offerings to provide some fun and unusual opportunities for auction bidders; so Henke and her committee did the discovering, soliciting, and running around to find items such as clubhouse passes to the Oak Tree Meet, a month's exercise workout at Sierra Madre's The Cottage and a gourmet fruit basket from Sierra Produce in Arcadia.

Born and raised in Ohio where she taught school for 10 years before moving to Arcadia some 30 years ago, Henke says that she has enjoyed the approximately 1000 hours that she has donated over the past and that, even though she was president of the Service Council last year, she feels more comfortable being "an Indian, not a chief."

She has even interested her retired husband, Arthur, in the volunteer world as he helps out with computer work in the Arboretum's Foundation office. Their children, graduates of Arcadia High School, are Neill,who lives in San Diego, and Pat Karamitros, a Sierra Madre resident.

For more information on the Pacific Asia Museum and this week's fundraiser, call 449 - 2742.

Students urged to stay drug - free

Helping to provide a supportive and realistic environment for students to remain free of drugs, the Arcadia Board of Education has approved the Voluntary Chemical Abuse Testing Program (V - CAT) for all Arcadia High School students.

Beginning in the fall of 1986, the V - CAT program was open to volunteers from the athletic programs and from members of the Executive Council only; now all students can participate in the voluntary drug urinalysis testing.

Jerry Barshay, Arcadia High principal, evaluated the program with his administrative staff and the school's Tri - Advisory Council concluding with the recommendation that all students be eligible.

The Arcadia Methodist Hospital has offered to continue the testing at 50 percent of the actual cost in support of the school district and as a community service. Various organizations within the community will be approached for the remainder of the funds so that the test may continue to be offered at no cost to the students.

Suzanne Keavney, director of pupil personnel, reported that about 40 percent of eligible participants signed up for the program last year.

In that program, which will be identical in format this year, names of students who had volunteered were randomly drawn for a urinalysis test at Arcadia Methodist Hospital. Results were given to the student's doctor or parents with no report given to the school.

Free food distribution

On Friday, Oct. 16, there will be a U.S.D.A. surplus food distribution at Arcadia County Park, 425 So. Santa Anita Ave., Arcadia. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 11:30 a.m. Five pounds of cheese and five pounds of flour will be given to 750 individuals or families. No bags are provided, so it is recommended that each claimant bring his own.

City-wide program protects neighbors

Neighborhood Watch, a crime prevention program which enlists the active participation of citizens in cooperation with law enforcement to reduce crime is a city - wide program with Don Alcorn of the Arcadia Police Department serving as crime prevention officer.

Assisting Alcorn are two volunteers who are lead coordinators responsible for organizing area coordinators for the 32 residential areas throughout the city. The lead coordinators are Ravelle "Zak" Kozak, a former deputy sheriff who has been working with the Neighborhood Watch program for two years, and Betty Brau, a security manager at Penney's in the Santa Anita Fashion Park who joined the team some six months ago.

Neighborhood Watch involves neighbors getting to know each other and working together in a program of mutual assistance; citizens being trained to recognize and report suspicious activities in their neighborhoods; and implementation of crime prevention techniques, such as home security and Operation Identification.

The Arcadia Police Department offers a home security check with advice on proper procedure of securing the individual home and urges residents, in Operation ID, to engrave their drivers license number on valuable pieces of property This identification process makes items more easily identifiable if stolen. The police department makes an engraving tool available on loan for residents to mark property.

Last week Alcorn conducted two meetings for the area coordinators who are responsible for organizing the block captains in their specific geographic areas of the city.

Neighborhood Watch crime prevention programs are a proven and effective means to substantially reduce not only the incidence of residential burglaries, but the incidence of other crimes, according to the California office of the Attorney General, which adds that a good neighbor is one of the most effective crime prevention tools ever invented.

Book Fair encourages students to read

The Hugo Reid Elementary School Book Fair, opening Monday, Oct. 12 will address the issue of children spending too much time watching television and will offer alternatives to the ever - present TV in today's world, according to Jan Gotha, PTA spokesperson.

Many events have been planned to introduce both parents and children to the world of literature.

To increase awareness in children's literature, parent volunteers have been reading to children on the playground during recess; Hugo Reid Principal Tim Brown is planning a special program for the primary students when he reads aloud at "Breakfast with the Principal."

Candace Lynch, librarian at Clairbourn School, will present a program for parents entitled "Give a Book and a Little More" on Monday, Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. in the Hugo Reid Youth Hut on Cabrillo Dr., Arcadia.

On display will be informative posters with guidelines for motivating children to read and suggestions for book selections.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 13 - 14, at 7 p.m. on the Youth Hut lawn, a Reading Rainbow Story Tent will be open to children of all ages. Storytimes will be conducted by Marsha Burkhalter and Molly Dudley, Hugo Reid teachers on Tuesday and by Kathy Meacham, Arcadia Public Library children's librarian, on Wednesday.

Doris Peters of the San Marino Toy and Book Shoppe will review newly published books as well as her own favorite selections on Wednesday morning at 9 a.m.

The book Fair will be open Monday, Oct. 12 through Thursday, Oct. 15 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. Baby sitting will be provided from 2:30 - 5 each afternoon.

The Hugo Reid PTA is sponsoring the fair, open to the public, with books being supplied by the San Marino Toy and Book Shoppe.

READERS UNITE — Voting for reading books over viewing television are Hugo Reid's mascot Ricky Raccoon (Phyllis Wilburn), with students Meg Wilburn, Heather Gotha and Jennifer Newton. They are promoting the school's annual book fair which begins on Monday, Oct. 12.

Intercultural tea joins ESL group

An Intercultural Tea for parents of all students new to the school was hosted last week by the Foothills Junior High PTA.

Principal Penny Taylor explained educational goals and objectives and emphasized special programs such as the English as a Second Language program.

Explaining the PTA and its school support programs was PTA President Robin Stafford. Covering the classes and tests of the ESL program was Wendy Haigh, teacher - coordinator of ESL.

Four ESL students gave talks on what it is like to be an ESL student, comparing schools in their native countries. Each student gave his speech in English and then in his native language for the benefit of non - English speaking parents.

Student participants were Tom Wang, a ninth grade Chinese student; Naomi Bando, a ninth grade Japanese student; and Koreans, James and Alice Ha, eighth and ninth grades, respectively.

Intercultural chairman, Min Mey Chang, organized the meeting and provided refreshments. She was assisted by Ching Chen and Chu Kao.

WINESHED MIXER FUN — Judy and Dan Querrey at the Tournament of Roses Wineshed Mixer, receive a sampling of food offered by Nickie Tripodes and Betty Houston, owners of the Monrovia restaurant that bears their first names. Eight different area restaurants provided food for some 600 in attendance at the annual fundraising event.

Membership campaign begins in October

"PTA — Together We Can Make a Difference" is the theme of Arcadia PTA Council's membership enrollment campaign which officially begins in October, a month designated as PTA Membership Month by Mayor Charles Gilb.

All individuals who are interested in public education are encouraged to send the $2 membership fee to the participating schools or to Lynneve Schaugaard, Arcadia PTA Council membership chairman, 2024 S. Santa Anita, Arcadia.

Chris Coke reports that approximately 1400 memberships have already have been received from Arcadia High School parents.

Arcadia's three junior high schools, Dana, First Avenue, and Foothills, sent invitations to enroll in PTA in their back - to - school packets. Dana's Pam Durpe is anticipating a 100 percent PTA enrollment because parents want to "Invest in Their Future."

First Avenue's chairmen, Liz Anderson, Toni Cristafaro and Joyce Cammileri urge Spartans to show their commitment to PTA by bringing a membership card to the first dance and receiving free admittance. Foothills membership chairman, Judy McKellar, has arranged for free admittance with a membership card to a school dance, also.

Jeanne Mead and Sue Mitulski at Baldwin Stocker hope that the space shuttle theme "Join PTA in a Countdown for Kids" will inspire 100 percent enrollment, while Camino Grove's Kris Johnson is hoping that all parents "Join PTA and Bring a Smile to Camino Grove."

"Up, Up and Away; Join PTA Today" is Cheryl Hampton's motto at Highland Oaks where the goal is to top the 115 percent membership obtained last year.

Under direction of Debbie Lamb and Linda Hughes, Holly Avenue is getting into the "Spirit of Friendship" with class parties planned for the classes with the highest percentage.

Posters reflecting a Constitution theme "We the People Join Hugo Reid PTA" will be displayed around the campus, according to membership chairman Suzanne Tauer and Kathy Wallace.

"It's Time to Join PTA" announces Sherrylee Pacino who adds that each student who has one membership will be able to plant a flower on the campus of Longley Way.

Bethany

By Al Elby

What do you do with a Pastor who tells you from the pulpit that his goal is not to impart knowledge, but to impart love? . . . who also tells you that God didn't call Him to put people in their place by making them feel guilty. Rather, God called Pastor Clyde to put him in our place . . . what do you do with a Pastor like that? You just love him and love him and love him.

That's just what we are doing with our new Pastor . . . we just love him. He, through his sermons, has made it quite clear that the only thing that will last is love. To concentrate our efforts on anything else, is a waste of time and energy and will count for nothing.

In the Book of Corinthians, God, through Paul, has made this very clear to us that love is the bottom line of the Christian walk. We, at Bethany, have taken this to heart and have made our mission a ministry of love — love for one another and love for those about us. Won't you come to Bethany this Sunday and bathe in this sunshine of affection. Come and join us as we hold hands in mutual affection and as we worship our God, Who is the Lord of love.

Congregational

Pastor Richard J. Anderson will be speaking at all three morning services, 8:15, 9:45 and 11:45 a.m., on Sunday, Oct. 11. The subject of his sermon will be "Love Never Fails," based on the Scriptural reference of I Corinthians, chapter 13, verses 8 through 13.

The spiritual gifts all gave their purpose, and each of them is good, but when all is said and done, the one that will count is simply love. When we build upon love we build upon that which is the most durable. When we leave love out, it is only a matter of time and everything we have built will crumble into dust. Love is the most important thing in the universe because love never fails.

The evening service will be at 6 p.m. in the Sanctuary.

Lutheran — WELS

The sermon theme for next Sunday at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in Sierra Madre is: "Two Questions That Trouble Man." Sunday School and adult Bible Study follow. The Wednesday Bible Class that meets at 7 :30 p.m. will begin a study of the Book of Romans. We invite you to be our guests.

We Lutherans believe that there is one holy Christian Church, which is the temple of God (I Cor. 3:16), the body of Christ (Eph. 1:23; 4:12). The members of this one church are all those who are "the sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus" (Gal. 3:26). Whoever believes that Jesus died for his sin and rose again for his justification (Rom 4:25) belongs to Christ's Church. The Church, then, consists only of believers, or saints whom God accepts as holy for the sake of Jesus' imputed righteousness (2 Cor. 5 :21). These saints are scattered throughout the world.

Every true believer regardless of the nation or race or church body to which he belongs is a member of the holy Christian Church. "This We Believe."

Methodist

This Sunday, Oct. 11, a special fellowship brunch will be held following the morning worship service at the Sierra Madre United Methodist Church. This will be a special opportunity for new members and friends to become better acquanted with each other and to feel a meaningful part of the life of the church.

At the morning worship service, 9:30 a.m., Rev. H. Elwood Wissmann will be preaching on the topic, "The Mystery of God." Nursery and child care are provided during the worship service. Church School classes for children through grade six are held at the same hour.

This Tuesday, the committee on finance holds its regular meeting, 7:30 p.m. in the lounge. The Aldersgate Choir rehearses on Thursdays, 7:30 p.m., in the choir room. The Women's Prayer and Support Group meets on Mondays, 7:30 p.m., at the Parsonage. An Afternoon Prayer and Support Group meets Thursdays, 2 p.m., in the lounge.

Series planned at Transfiguration

"Coping With" is the topic of the current series of sermons and Rector's Forums at the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration, 1881 S. First Ave, Arcadia.

The Rev. J. William Daum is introducing the subject in his sermon entitled "Coping With Life."

Brenda Peterson, chaplain at Arcadia Methodist Hostpital, will be the first guest speaker of the series. On Sunday, Oct. 11, at the 9:30 a.m. sevice, she will assist Fr. Daum. During the forum her subject will be "Coping With Illness."

Brenda is ordained by the United Methodist Church. Just prior to coming to Arcadia, Brenda served at Patton State Hospital in San Bernadino where she was the assistant chaplain. She came to Methodist Hospital as the assistant chaplain. After serving in this capacity for four years she was promoted in 1984 to the position of Director of Chaplaincy Services upon the retirement of the resident chaplain, Paul Johenk. Brenda is a Fellow in the College of Chaplains and is a supervisor candidate in Clinical Pastoral Education.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the "Coping With" series. For more information, please call the church office at 445 - 3340.

Perloff disagrees with redesign of parking lot

Sam Perloff, who owns two of the properties involved in the possible facelifting of the Mariposa parking lot, told Willdan Associates, "People don't come to an area because of attractiveness. They come because of what they plan to buy . . . I'm not leasing 10,000 feet of rental and I've been here since 1939. If a new council comes in and changes this idea, the lease is up in the air. I won't give up my autonomy of property."

Willdan Associates are the engineers and planners hired by Sierra Madre Community Redevelopment Agency to design the Mariposa parking lot and plan pedestrian redevelopment of the area on the south side of Sierra Madre Blvd. Thursday evening's meeting was with Willdan and property owners of that area.

In his presentation, Project Manager of Phase 1, Albert V. Warot had said, "Without you (the property owners), there is no project. Your objectives are realized."

He stated that there would be two phases: Phase 1, which would last four months. In this phase they would gather information, prepare design concepts, select a preferred concept and negotiate owner participation.

In Phase 2, lasting nine months, they would prepare plans, coordinate bid process and contractor selection, manage construction, certify the project completion and provide as-built drawings. Michael Meyers, who was also present, would represent Willdan as project manager of Phase 2.

Warot pointed out to Perloff that Federal Community Block Grants were available. "We do not expect improvements to be made without assistance. There are certain businesses that would find it of no advantage for a rear entrance. In revitalizing the area, . . . the parking alone is not the panacea."

Meyers added, "We intend to improve the parking, lighting, grading, rear access with financial assistance and carrying out CRA projects."

Perloff said, "I honestly feel that the money the city has could be spent elsewhere. Look at the back of my store. (He pointed to the aerial shot of the parking lot that was on display at the meeting.) It's absolutely empty . . . Ask people in the stores how many customers they have in a day. I have seven rentals. My livelihood depends on rentals that I have."

Someone from the audience asked, "Is this mandatory participation?" Willdan's answer was, "No."

Another asked, "Will there be a change in zoning?" The answer was, "Not much."

City Administrator Jim McRea said, "The real intent is to bring retail (trade) back. Good parking will increase rental rates . . . The council wants to attract resale. (Perhaps) we need a nice promenade in back where people walk, everyone gets exposure."

Perloff countered, "There isn't an investor who'd build today if he built in Sierra Madre. He'd have to raise the rent to $2 a square foot. Let's be practical . . . I won't enter into a lease. I'm not willing to give up my autonomy."

Willdan representative Warot said, "Owner participation agreements are a possibility."

Mary Marik said, "We need safe access to the remainder of the district. Just to get to that area is not worth it. We need easy and safe access to reach the business district on the north side."

Warot suggested an overhead pergola or pedestrian islands or perhaps a textured walkway.

Marik nodded, "I think it's critical to treat the whole business district as one whole mall."

At this point, the meeting broke up and those present await the next phase which will be reported in The News.

London trip open to PCC students

Application deadline for Pasadena City college's spring term in Oxford, England is scheduled for Oct. 15. Information for the third "Spring Semester Abroad Program" in England is available by calling Dr. W. Goldmann at PCC, (818) 578-7203, according to Len Franco of Sierra Madre.

Franco, one of three PCC faculty members participating, is a professor of English and Foreign Languages Dept. Others are Lisa Davis, professor in the Social Services Dept., and Patricia Savoie, associate professor in the English and Foreign Languages Dept. All three are from Sierra Madre.

Sierra Madre residents so far who plan to participate in the program this year are Andrew Harth, Lisa Rabe, Marc Anthony Schurer and Freya Valerie Sheasky. All attend PCC.

The program is open to college students who have completed at least one term of college work. Dates are Feb. 11 - June 2, 1988. Students selected for the program will live with British families, take 13 to 16 units, attend plays and other cultural events in Oxford, London, Stratford, take overnight trips to various sites in England and a special four-day trip to Dublin, Ireland.

Total cost is $3295 and that includes roundtrip air fare from LAX to London, lodging in a British home, two meals a day, World Student Insurance, and all listed excursions and entry fees.

Associate professor Patricia Savoie, professor Len Franco and professor Lisa Davis participate in the London trip term starting Oct. 15.

Last year's group, according to Franco and Davis, were in the age range of 17 to 64 and they were a cross section of the community, males and females, and a good ethnic balance. They included Jennifer Bird, Rourke Hogue, Anne Kelly, Elizabeth Mjelde, Fiona Moorehead and Connie Woehler.

Franco explained that the students stay with working class people who often have only cold water for baths, and sometimes in the cold weather of London the changes are "drastic," he explained.

Franco, one of the originators of the program, went on a Sabbatical in the fall of '82, and decided, "This would be wonderful for our kids."

When he returned home, he discovered that Dr. William Goldmann and Dr. Phyllis Mael, both PCC professors, had the same idea.

Mael presents lecture on Oxford trip

The Pasadena City College Library will present a lecture, "Adventures with Alice in Oxfordland: International Communication through Study Abroad," on Oct. 8, at 11 a.m. in the PCC Forum. This is a timely lecture, since the deadline for Spring Semester Abroad applications is Oct. 15.

Dr. Phyllis Mael, associate professor in PCC's English department and coordinator of the Semester Abroad Program, will give an illustrated lecture on PCC's Oxford program that covers literature, legend, art, politics, history and architecture. Christ Church College in Oxford will serve as the focus of the talk.

Dr. Mael received her Ph.D. in comparative literature from Occidental College and was awarded grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities to study drama and film. She has taken students to Ashland, Ore. and London to attend theatre. She was one of the originators of "Spring Semester Abroad" programs and has taught PCC students in Oxford during the 1986 and 1987 spring semesters.

Free 'Lifesave' tags offered free from hospitals, fire, police

Every hospital, police department, fire department and school in the state are now distributing free Lifesaver Tags courtesy of Lifesaver Charities (12 million).

Lifesaver Tags contain vital information filled out with an ordinary ball point pen to help police, paramedics and emergency room doctors properly deal with the injured. Lifesaver Tags are recommended for the active adults, i.e., joggers, bicyclists, walkers, senior citizens, expectant mothers and the disabled, as well as for children.

The tag program is being done as part of Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 4 through 10) and Crime Prevention Month (October) by California Fire and Police Departments.

In other words of one fire chief, "It just doesn't make sense that our pets should have more emergency information on them than our children. We plan on changing that with Lifesaver Tags."
